#InkemInkemKavale trends as Sid Sriram's love ballad makes surprise appearance in Olympics video

The 2018 chartbuster Inkem Inkem Kavale from the Vijay Devarakonda-Rashmika-starrer Geetha Govindam recently received a surprising recognition. The official Instagram handle of the Olympics surprised fans by featuring the song in a mashup video showcasing the Eiffel Tower adorned with the Olympic rings in anticipation of the Paris Games.

The song comes at a moment when Geetha gets on Govindam's motorcycle for the first time. "Anantha Sriram's lyrics beautifully captured the high experienced by Govind, who wishes for time to stand still, recognising he doesn't need anything else in life. The song went on to become a massive hit," shares director Parasuram.

Talking about how the song came about, Parasuram shares, "The initial version featured music composer Gopi Sundar's vocals before Sid Sriram was brought in to render the final vocals, captivating audiences with his voice. I remember travelling to Kochi to meet Gopi Sundar. I narrated the scene to him, and the tune was finalised within the next 15-20 minutes."

The song's uplifting message and infectious melody have helped it transcend language barriers, says Parasuram. "The lead pair, Vijay and Rashmika, with their chemistry, breathed life into their characters," says the director, adding, "This recognition serves as a testament to the power of music to connect people across cultures and inspire them to chase their dreams."

Sapthami files defamation suit after being named in Yuva-Sridevi

Yuva Rajkumar & Sridevi divorce: Co-star named in legal notice

There has been a twist in the case surrounding the divorce spat between Kannada actor Yuva Rajkumar and his wife Sridevi Byrappa. In a lengthy petition, Sridevi had accused Yuva of being in a relationship with his co-star Sapthami Gowda. In her reaction, Sapthami, who starred in Kantara, has now moved court against her with a defamation case for mentioning her name in the petition, seeking ₹10 crore in damages. She has also sought a public apology from Sridevi. Submitting the plea, Sapthami is said to have told the Court that she has nothing to do with Yuva besides being his co-star in his film, and that her name was dragged into the case for no fault of hers. The Bengaluru City Civil court has now sent notice to Sridevi, taking cognisance of Sapthami's petition.

Should restaurants have an entry age limit for guests?

Divya Kaushik

A minimum age limit for entry at bars and restaurants is not unheard of. Outlets often do this to ensure that only those at a legal drinking age are served liquor. However, recently, Bliss Caribbean Restaurant in Missouri, USA made headlines for its unique entry rule. In a Facebook post, they wrote, "To ensure a grown and sexy atmosphere, we require all guests to be 30 or older for women and 35 or older for men. This policy helps us maintain a sophisticated environment, uphold our standards, and support the sustainability of our unique ambience."

Why the age limit?

A report in The New York Times mentions that the owners of the restaurant, Tina and Marvin Pate, both 42 years old, say that the age restriction allows customers to be themselves. They say that it is not their intention to discriminate against anyone and the entry rule is just about creating an environment where older customers feel comfortable.

Bliss's post on the entry age limit has received mixed responses. While many called the concept discriminatory, others welcomed it for being clear about the restaurant's target audience

Those in their 30s and 40s like quieter places, where they can de-stress and talk. Different age groups prefer different vibes. Those in their 30s are also better spenders. It makes business sense to define the age group - Restaurateur Varun Kherra

Is it viable for restaurants to set such an age limit for guests?

Without wishing to be named, a restaurateur with establishments across India, says, "In the past, even when clubs and bars restricted entry to those below 18 years of age, it became an issue as any such rule on entry is seen as a restriction. So, no restaurant will openly come up with such a rule in India. However, there are outlets that are promoting themselves with the kind of music, food or drinks that they have, to only invite guests from a certain age group. It lets guests make an informed decision."

Speaking in favour of the rule, restaurateur Varun Kherra says, "This has become a trend now and is being done across the globe. A lot of restaurants are doing it to segregate their target age group from the rest. Those in their mid-30s or 40s will not relate to the kind of music, food or drinks that Gen Zs like and vice versa."

'It helps to know the age group the resto is targeting'

Experts share that it is better to know which places are suitable for different age groups before they go and risk being disappointed. "Most of us have experienced going to a popular restaurant or bar, only to be disappointed because it didn't have the type of music, food, or drinks we enjoy. I am not sure if the entry rule for a certain age group will work here, but I think restaurants should mention on social media who they are targeting - a young crowd looking for beer, finger food and a lot of dancing or those looking for a relaxed ambience," says Shailja Vadhwa, a marketing consultant, who has worked with F&B chains in the past. Restaurateur Varun Kherra adds, "Those in their 20s will not know why Backstreet Boys' music connects so well with those in their 30s or 40s. They may be interested in going out for two beers and not understand the idea of a refined, exotic cocktail on the menu."

KATE MIDDLETON MAKES FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE SINCE CANCER DIAGNOSIS

The Princess of Wales attended King Charles III's birthday parade on Saturday

Catherine, the Princess of Wales, aka Kate Middleton, took part in the Trooping the Colour event marking the official birthday of King Charles III on Saturday. The princess attended the parade with her husband Prince Charles and their kids George, Charlotte and Louis. This marked her first return to the public stage after confirming in March that she was being treated for cancer. The last public appearance the princess made was in December 2023.

Kate also shared a health update via a statement on social media, writing, "I am making good progress, but as anyone going through chemotherapy will know, there are good days and bad days." She added, "I am learning how to be patient, especially with uncertainty. Taking each day as it comes, listening to my body, and allowing myself to take this much needed time to heal."

Kate, 42, said that she hoped to take part in a few other public engagements soon, but added, "I am not out of the woods yet."

Post her public appearance at a Christmas event in December 2023, Kate Middleton's whereabouts remained unknown for a while. It was later understood that she underwent an abdominal surgery in January 2024. Several conspiracy theories and a Mother's Day (UK) photo editing fiasco later, it was announced by Kensington Palace that Kate was undergoing treatment for cancer

POV

Why do women work? The answer may just surprise you

Unless you are a woman who identifies herself as your family's sole breadwinner, society assumes you work because you 'like' to do so, or worse, are looking for a partner. And once in a relationship with someone who's 'well established', you are happy to give it all up.

Lost a career because people thought I didn't need to work anymore: Saba

Singer, performer and voice-over artiste Saba Azad, who also happens to be Hrithik Roshan's girlfriend, turned the spotlight on this reality in a series of posts that spoke about how she lost out on assignments once it became public that she was dating one of the biggest Bollywood stars. It was assumed, as she found out later, that she no longer needed to 'work'.

Saba's long post raises some serious questions on how we view single women. Why is it that once a woman gets into a relationship her identity is subsumed by that of her partner's? Or does the professional currency she has accumulated amount to nothing, as she is denied opportunities she has proven herself worthy of? In fact, Dia Mirza was one of the actors who came out in support of the artist, saying this is sadly the story of "every woman in the industry."

Saba calling out this "regressive and patriarchal" mindset resonates - not because it is about Bollywood - an industry we love to follow, discuss and occasionally diss. But because it is something many single, successful women have faced in various stages of their lives and relationships. While some have soldiered on, despite the hurdles, others have learned to compromise and eventually allowed their career ambitions to take a backseat.

Indra Nooyi, one of the most influential CEOs in the world, has been vocal about the need for a complete overhaul in our work culture, to bring back and retain the best talents across industries. And they often happen to be women. Women who are walking extra hard to achieve more and are hungry for success and economic freedom, she says, adding: "It is a loss to any country if they cannot capitalise on this."

Saba's posts are thus vital and need to be referenced. Her speaking up is a small step towards creating work-spaces that are free, fair and equal.

HOW TO PLAY
Fill in the grid so that every horizontal row, every vertical column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9, without repeating the numbers in the same row, column or box. You can't change the digits already given in the grid. Every puzzle has one solution.

TIMES HITORI

HOW TO PLAY
1. A number may appear just once in each row or column. Eliminate repeat numbers by darkening cells. (see example)
2. Darkened cells must never be adjacent in a row or column.
3. Unmarked cells must create a single continuous area, undivided by darkened cells.
4. Every time you darken a cell, you can automatically circle its vertical and horizontal neighbours, which means they cannot be eliminated.
5. Any cell "sandwiched" between neighbours of the same value can be circled. (e.g. 6 4 6)
6. A "triple" is a special case of sandwich. Circle the centre cells, and darken the ends. (e.g. 6 6 6)

LOOP THE LOOP

RULES
• Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A).
• Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B).
• Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines.
• You can't draw lines around zeroes.
• Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

HOW TO BEGIN:
Example (Fig A) - Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.
Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a deadend (Fig B).

See what the stars have in store for you - according to your moon sign.

VIRGO: It isn't the challenge itself that matters, but how you respond to it. You are a great doer and others respect your abilities to take control of difficult situations. You are in a good position to take out loans, pay down debt and make major purchases.

LIBRA: You can be motivated to reconcile with someone, with whom you previously had certain tension. Watch out for stresses at home or with a significant other. Your future still may not look clear to you, but you have some great ideas stirring.

SCORPIO: It is preferable to have an affectionate or relatively quiet, all embracing and evolutionary relationship rather than continually arousing susceptibility. In love, avoid at all cost unpredictable, capricious behaviour or sharp, harsh tones. Keep a curb on your spending or you could easily over-stretch your budget.

SAGITTARIUS: You realise that by emitting noble energies, the energies returned to you are high and protective. If you are already in a relationship, use this chance to reaffirm your love. Your mind might be uneasy today as you are thinking of a new venture.

CAPRICORN: It is how you perceive events, respond to situations, and adapt to change that truly matters. You are overcome by the fact because you think you are. You are the product of positive thoughts.

AQUARIUS: You have a powerful strength today and it is advisable to become aware of it and to understand that energy in reality is a specific manifestation. Your rash attitude creates instability in work relationships.

PISCES: Don't think that by simply maintaining an apparently harmonious, fun and happy keynote at this time. You have got something important to communicate to others. If you are not currently involved with anyone, there is a possibility of a sudden and fleeting romance.

Social media is raving about hot rodent men – who are they?

Golden retriever boyfriends are becoming a thing of the past, as social media users embrace a new category – hot rodent men/boyfriends

Who is a rodent man?

According to social media and numerous news reports, rodent men are characterised by their angular facial structures, beady eyes, untidy hair, and a lankier build compared to typical Hollywood heartthrobs. This trend focuses not just on appearances but also on personality traits. A typical rodent man is considered to be intelligent, witty, and a proponent of PDA.

It's all about rejection of AI?

Several stylists got together to discuss this new type of man: Stella Bugbee: Piping in here with a pretentious theory: Lust after so-called Rodent Men (aka, not perfect beefcakes) is about a rejection of AI. Gina Chereilus: Yes, and years of Facetuning and Snapchat filters.

Stella Bugbee: Yes! If we are offered fake perfection we will yearn for human imperfections. We want to know that the people we find hot have blood in their veins and were the product of two humans combining their genes. We want to see the vulnerability of an asymmetrical face.

Origin of the term

The term gained popularity after the April release of Challengers, featuring Mike Faist and Josh O'Connor as the male leads in a love triangle with a former tennis star. Viewers quickly turned them into memes, noting their supposed resemblance to mice, particularly cartoon ones.

#BTSFesta: Complaint filed against fan for trying to kiss Jin

Jin conducted an in-person event for this year's BTS Festa recently

A screenshot from the video in which a fan attempted to kiss the singer during the event

Recently, Jin conducted an in-person event for this year's BTS Festa, where he greeted fans and offered hugs (or handshakes). According to news reports, a couple of fans tried to kiss him, which has been reported to the police.

A police official stated, "We received the complaint through the National Petition System, but we have not received a formal complaint. We have not booked the suspect yet," as quoted by Soompi. The report further states that the police will review whether to proceed with a formal investigation based on the details of the complaint. Photos and videos capturing the fans trying to kiss Jin, who recently completed his mandatory service in the South Korean military, have surfaced on social media.

People thought I didn't need to work anymore, says Saba

Referring to her relationship with Hritik Roshan, Saba Azad wrote, "When two strong independent individuals come together they don't give up their identities and careers"

Saba Azad in her latest Instagram post revealed how she has been struggling to find voice-over jobs since she started dating Hritik Roshan.

She wrote, "I never told anyone I'm quitting, I never altered my sessions fee, nothing was different from my end so what changed? I was entirely clueless. I was clueless until a month ago when I met a director I used to work with regularly on a back to Bombay and I just couldn't help myself and straight up asked him - 'Hey man, I'm curious why don't you guys call me for VOs anymore? What happened?' And what followed has my mind completely boggled. This is what he said, 'Oh we just thought you wouldn't like to do something like voice over anymore...given' well you can imagine what was implied (sic)."

Calling out the "regressive thinking" of people, Saba wrote, "Are we really still living in the dark ages where we assume a woman in a relationship with a successful partner no longer

For the uninitiated when two strong independent individuals come together they don't give up their identities or their lives and careers to do so. They hold on to their individuality and share from a place of freedom and strength. I still gotta put food on my table you guys :) so losing a whole career because of someone else's presumptuous ignorance really hurts.

So again, no I haven't quit, all ye makers of ads - I still do VOs. So pls for the love of god undo your assumptions and let's get recording already!!

has to put food on her own table?? Or pay her rent and bills? Or take pride in her work and take care of herself and her family?? What kind of an archaic assumption to make?? (sic)" Saba wrote.

Celine Dion aims to sing again amid health struggles

Celine Dion

Celine Dion has revealed that she intends to return to the stage, following a 2022 diagnosis of the neurological disorder, Stiff Person Syndrome (SPS). According to a news report, the singer stated that she lived with SPS for years without being diagnosed, believing it to be tour fatigue.

Dion felt distressed when she began to notice changes in her voice while on tour. "It was just feeling a little strange, like a little spasm. My voice was struggling. I was starting to push a little bit," recalls the My Heart Will Go On singer.

"Although Celine will live with this condition for the rest of her life, the therapy she is undergoing to lessen the muscle spasms will help her to sing on stage again," said Dr Amanda Piquet, a health expert treating Dion, as quoted by the BBC. Dion further stated that her voice is currently "being rebuilt".
