This is compounding in real life!

Everything that we do, every day, compounds – investing, reading, working out, eating right, writing, having a routine, etc.

And it applies to the 'bad' things as well – complaining, criticising, worrying, procrastinating, etc.

The decision of whether it will compound or not is not yours!

The choice of what to compound is.

We are hiring!

We are hiring at WebVeda!

WebVeda is an online school that helps young professionals get life-ready, with courses that are self-paced, affordable, and come with a 100% refund policy.

We are 390,000+ students strong, add between 6-8K new students every month, and are looking for a Student Community Manager to grow an active student community.

1. Part-time role (20 hrs/week; can be converted into a full-time role, should you be willing).
2. 100% remote; no set working hours.
3. Comes with a lot of fun, growth, and ownership - working in a small, high performance team.

Compensation range for the role is here.

The application form is long by design and will take 1-2 hours.

Please plan accordingly.

Last date to apply: 16th June, Sunday.

If you are shortlisted, you will hear from us by 20th June.

Results of last week's survey

Which aspect of your career do you wish school/college taught you about?

Here are the results:

- › Money management/Investing - the highest rated - with over 60% stating this.
- › Followed by communication and public speaking - over 45%.
- › Followed by how to manage one's emotions - over 30%.
- › Followed by how to manage office politics - over 25%.
- › Followed by taxes - over 20%!

My response:

I wish school/college taught us how to manage our money well once we start earning. And not rely so much on our salary to grow our wealth!

Quotes to share

2 things we live for in our country:

1. Send parents on an international trip in business class.
2. Earn 10Cr; only to put it in an FD.

My week, in pictures

In this section, I share my week in pictures, for those who do not like to read as much as I write :))

I do so not to show how cool a life I live, but instead to show you what are the highlights of every day. As you will see over time, my days are mostly in repeat mode - the same things, but different experiences from them.

We are still in Japan.

I have been documenting the journey on Instagram - which you can check out on my profile page.

Some pics from the trip below:

Took a cycling trip from Onomichi to Imabari - 45kms one way - it's awesome fun riding a bicycle along the coast.

Stayed in a traditional Japanese hotel called Ryokan.

Visited Nikko National Park - a stunning place close to Tokyo (just 2 hrs).

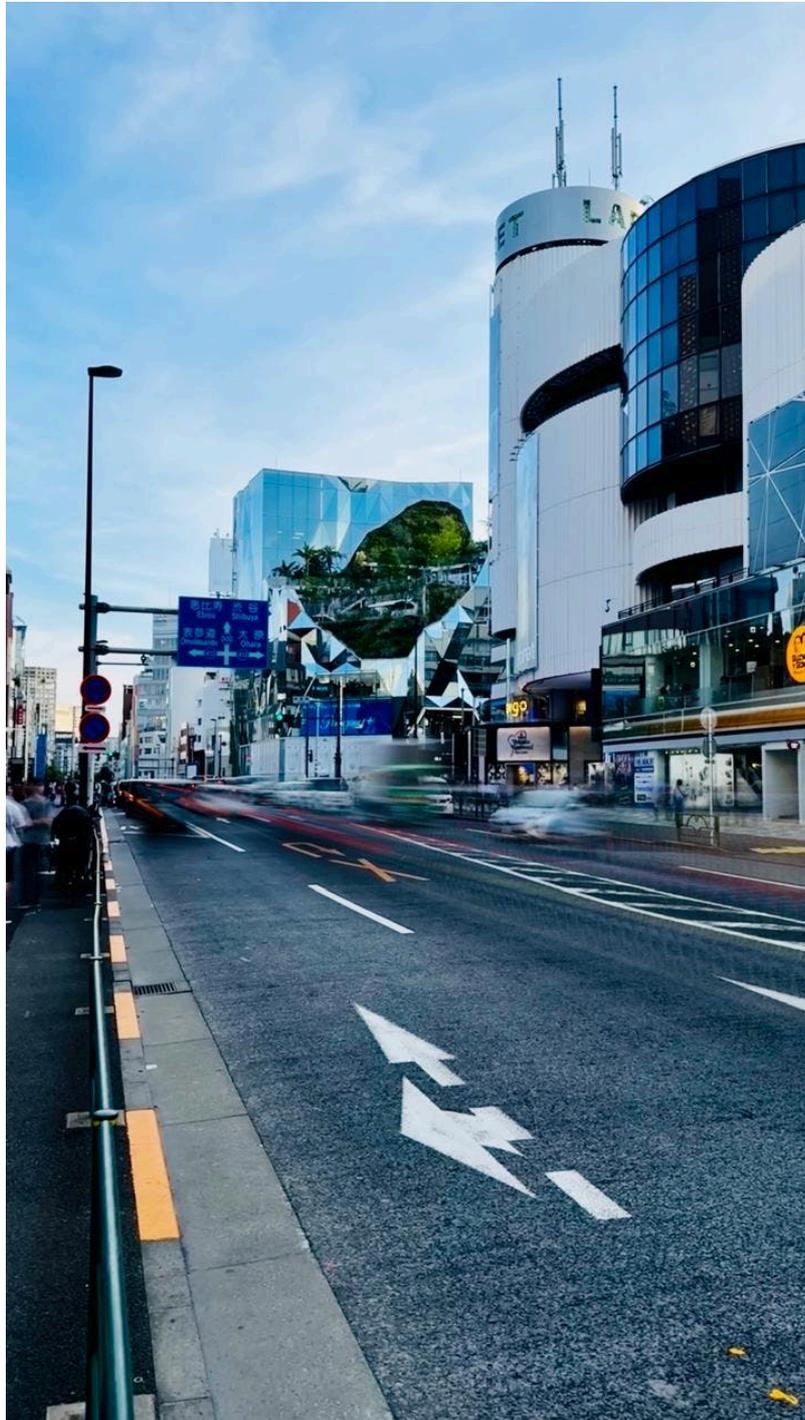

Lovely Red Bridge - looks even prettier when raining :)

Visited Tokyo Disneyland :))

Back in Tokyo now. This is the Harajuku area - quite a happening place :)

That's it for the week in pictures. Have a lovely weekend and week ahead, all of you lovelies :)))
