John and Parvin unite to showcase the power of panja

John Abraham and Parvin Dabas

6 The tie-up with John for this promo is perfect. I would love to see him in a film on arm wrestling soon
- Parvin Dabas

Parvin Dabas, co-founder of the Pro Panja League, and John Abraham, whose film Vedaa is set to release on August 15, came together for an interesting promo shoot for the new season of the league that will be held in Mumbai from October 4 to 20. Talking about the collaboration, Parvin says, "The tie-up with John for this promo is perfect. I love the powerful trailer of Vedaa and it seems like one of the most exciting films of the year. I would love to see John in a film on arm wrestling soon."

The Pro Panja League, which has Suniel Shetty on board as a partner and was co-founded by Preeti Jhangiani, embodies the spirit of bravery, resilience and the power of one. Arm wrestlers in the league are modern-day warriors, each with their own story of struggle, perseverance and triumph. The Pro Panja league, comprising six teams, is committed to promoting equality by offering equal opportunities to male, female and specially-abled athletes.

Notably, the league continues its partnership with one of India's leading sports broadcasters, Sony Sports Network, ensuring extensive and live coverage of the matches on Sony Sports Ten 3 SD and HD channels every day from 7 pm to 9 pm. Fans can engage with the event using the hashtags #LagaPanja and #BharatKaKhel, showcasing the countrywide spread of panja.

6 Jab aap dusre desh mein jate ho for competitions, and when you win aapke National Anthem mein sab log khade hote hain aur aapka flag upar jata hai - I think that's the best feeling

MY PROFESSION IS MY WAY OF SERVING THE NATION: MANU BHAKER

6 I haven't slept for many days now, but I'm grateful for the love and support. Leading the Indian contingent (at the Olympics closing ceremony) is like a dream come true, and I will cherish it my entire life. So, I better be on my toes and not be complaining about anything. Lakhon, karoron logon ka sapna hota hai ye!

Celebrating excellence in jewellery design

Sudha Reddy

The 19th FURA Retail Jeweller India Awards, one of the most anticipated events in the jewellery industry, took place in the city last weekend. This annual event recognises exquisite craftsmanship and innovative designs in the Indian jewellery industry.

FURA, a global precious coloured gemstone mining company, launched in India last year, offering origin-certified emeralds, rubies and sapphires to Indian markets. As the main sponsor of these awards, it aims to make precious coloured gemstones more accessible while providing traceability through certificates of origin.

For nearly two decades, the Retail Jeweller India Awards have dazzled with a showcase of meticulously selected pieces. This year, 136 beautiful creations vied for top honours. At the heart of these awards is an independent jury panel comprising some of India's most discerning jewellery connoisseurs. These accomplished women, each with a refined eye for luxury and an innate understanding of bespoke elegance, bring their wealth of expertise to the jury panel. Their diverse professional backgrounds ensure a holistic evaluation that celebrates both tradition and innovation.

I'm surrounded by people who have either represented India or fought for India: Manu

Niharika Lal

After winning two bronze medals at the Olympics, Manu Bhaker took a detour to Delhi before returning to Paris for the closing ceremony. An overwhelmed Manu says, "When I was going to Paris for the Olympics, everyone was positive, but when I came back, the love grew even more. It is 50 times, even 100 times more than what it was when I was going for the Olympics."

'EVERY PERSON HAS A PART TO PLAY IN SERVING THE NATION'

During her recent visit to India Gate, accompanied by her coach Jaspal Rana and her family, Manu shared, "My nanaji and dadaji both fought in wars, and my father initially served in the Navy. I have deep respect for anyone protecting the country. I think every person has a part to play in serving the nation, and it is important that they should do it with honesty. Luckily, my profession is something that I love, and this is my way to serve the nation."

She feels that the discipline instilled in her by her family and coaches became her driving force. Manu shares, "My first shooting coach was ex-Army. My karate and boxing coaches also served in the Army. My coach Jaspal sir has represented the country for so many years. I'm surrounded by a team of people who have either represented India or fought for India. They are all very disciplined people. I remember my boxing and karate coaches were so strict. But I'm thankful for that because they helped me become the person I am today."

'I always only think, 'I'm here for a purpose, and I shall always do my best and deliver the best'

For the past few weeks, social media feeds have been filled with clips of when Manu won her Olympic medals. Talking about how it feels to represent India, she says, "When you go to a competition, you cannot be thinking of defeat or victory. I only focus on my performance, and I try to do my best no matter what. After it's done, then maybe I'll see the medal tally. But I only focus on technical aspects and what's keeping me in the best shape and best state of mind. I tell myself that I'm here for a purpose, and I shall always do my best and deliver the best."

Manisha calls Richa & Ali the best couple in the film industry

Manisha Koirala spent quality time with new parents Richa Chadha and Ali Fazal at their Mumbai home. Manisha met Richa, with whom she worked in the series Heeramandi: The Diamond Bazaar, weeks after she welcomed her firstborn, a baby girl. Sharing a picture from their home, Manisha wrote, "Most definitely the best couple in the film fraternity that I have met. Love the cosiness that surrounds their home... Thank you, Richa Chadha and Ali Fazal, for yesterday! See you guys soon! with Heeramandi writer and dear friend Moin Beg (sic)."

Later, Richa shared a bunch of pictures on social media, describing her life as a new mom. Commenting on her post, Manisha wrote, "You and @alifazal9 are just so perfect for each other, and love is flowing with lil princess and two fur babies. I was soaking in the positive and cosy vibe of your home. Thank you for yesterday (sic)."

Sidharth Malhotra in Shershaah

Sidharth Malhotra's film Shershaah clocked in three years recently. The film was based on the life of Captain Vikram Batra, who was all of 24 when he laid down his life on the battlefield during the Kargil War. Sidharth, who essayed the part of Captain Vikram Batra, earned a lot of praise for his performance in the film. The actor said, "Shershaah is a special film for me. This was my first film that received a National Award. The process of getting into the character of Captain Vikram Batra was exhilarating and rewarding."

He further added, "Very rarely do you come across films that continue to give you unabashed love even after a year, and Shershaah is undoubtedly one of them. I am grateful and proud to have told this story."

'Compared to TV shows, I was offered peanuts in films'

Nausheen Ali Sardar on her showbiz journey

Not many know that Nausheen Ali Sardar, best known as television's KKusum, had tried her luck in Bollywood and even acted in five films. In a recent chat with us, the actress revealed, "Between 2005-2011, I did five films, but unfortunately, things didn't go as planned. The first film took five years to complete, the second, which was a Vikram Bhatt film, didn't work due to a poor marketing strategy. Later, I acted in two more films; one with Irrfan and Lucky Ali, which was shot in 2007, but released in 2021!"

Nausheen with Ashish Chowdhry in a still from the film Three: Love, Lies, Betrayal

'THERE IS NO MONEY FOR NEWCOMERS IN FILMS'

Talking about her endless wait, she said, "I just got tired waiting for the films to release. TV actors say it is not easy for them to get into movies, but I didn't face that problem... I faced other issues. While I got good work easily, I realised that people have a wrong notion that acting in films is lucrative. I was a star on TV at that time, but when I acted in films, I was offered peanuts! I feel there is no money for newcomers in films, only stars earn in crores. In comparison, TV actors get good money. Of course, after the pandemic, things changed because budgets were slashed."

Meanwhile, Nausheen has returned to TV with the show Vasudha and is looking forward to a new stint. The actress says, "It's an interesting role with scope to perform. I have always been choosy about the roles I take up."

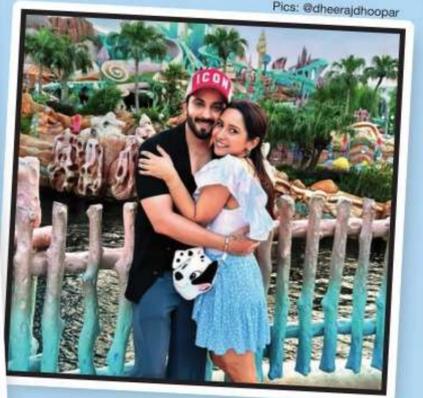

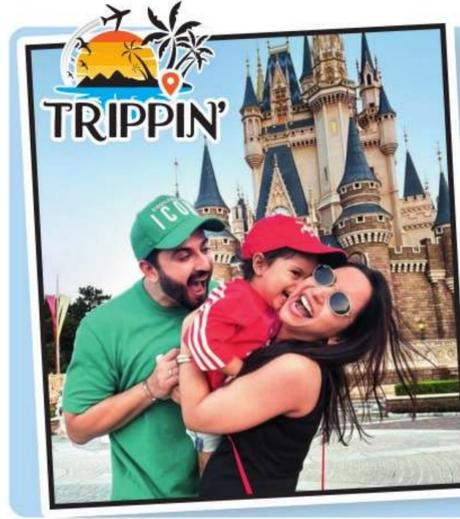

— Tanvi Trivedi

'I don't want to compromise when it comes to choosing a life partner'

On the personal front, Nausheen reveals that she has frozen her eggs. She says, "I want to get married and have kids someday, but I want to meet the right person and I'm willing to wait. I don't want to compromise when it comes to choosing a life partner. I froze my eggs because I didn't want to worry about my biological clock ticking."

Screen sibling bonds to warm your heart

Bhaag Milkha Bhaag (2013)
Farhan Akhtar and Divya Dutta as Milkha and Isri

Despite the turmoils in her life and an abusive marriage, Isri (Divya Dutta) unfailingly encourages her brother Milkha (Farhan Akhtar) to fulfil his Olympics dream. Divya said she requested that director Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra shoot the siblings' reunion scene in a single take, and that she couldn't stop crying even after the shot was over.

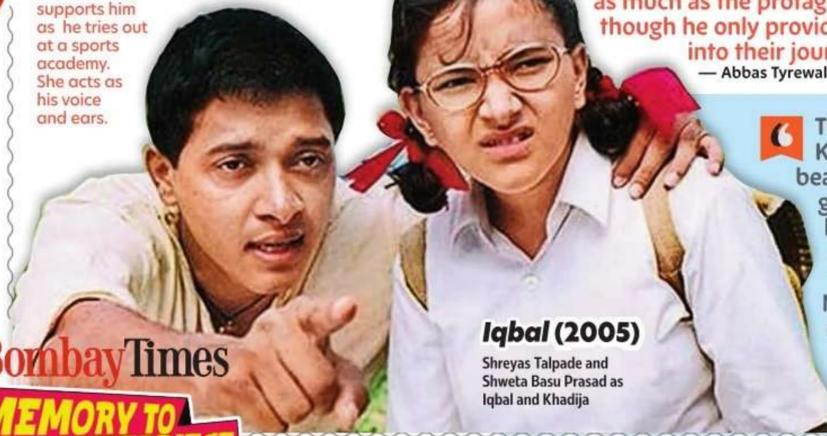

Milkha Singh shared with us the nuances of the beautiful bond he had with his sister. Isri was an incredible blend of vulnerability and strength. She did whatever she could to raise her brother, including selling her gold earrings, which became one of the most beautiful scenes in the film. Another emotional scene is when she finds him in a camp after Partition

— Divya Dutta, actor

Natasha Coutinho
This Rakshabandhan, we explore the bond of love between screen siblings who inspire and uplift one another

Iqbal (Shreyas Talpade) is a deaf-and-mute boy who dreams of playing cricket for India. Despite their father's discouragement, his sister Khadija (Shweta Basu Prasad) supports him as he tries out at a sports academy. She acts as his voice and ears.

Iqbal (2005)
Shreyas Talpade and Shweta Basu Prasad as Iqbal and Khadija

As Aditi was aggressively expressive, we created a complex character to contrast her. Amit captured human emotions that don't need words but resonate with everyone. The audience felt they knew him. He is remembered as much as the protagonists are, even though he only provided insights into their journey

— Abbas Tyrewala, writer and director

Best friends Aditi (Genelia Deshmukh) and Jai (Imran Khan) are dating other people, but her brother Amit (Prateik Patil Babbar) helps her realise who her true love is. Despite their intense physical fights in the past, the siblings show they truly care for each other.

The credit goes to Nagesh Kukunoor for bringing to life such beautiful characters. Shreyas and I got along well, practising sign language between shots. In a scene where Naseeruddin Shah was teaching Iqbal to bowl, Naseer uncle would reorder words in the sentence, and I had to keep up with the translations, making the scene spontaneous and natural

— Shweta Basu Prasad, actor

Kabir (Ranveer Singh) is the kind of brother who stands up for his sister against patriarchy and misogyny. He tells their parents that Ayesha (Priyanka Chopra Jonas) should run the family business because she is more capable than him. He also supports his sister when she deals with an abusive husband, and she confides in him about things she can't discuss with anyone else, including being on contraceptives.

Dil Dhadakne Do (2015)
Ranveer Singh and Priyanka Chopra Jonas as Kabir and Ayesha

I don't think the brother-sister relationship is well represented in Bollywood. They generally have cheesy representations. This is an important relationship, as no one else shares your parents. I am thankful to Reema Kagti for writing such a brilliant script

— Zoya Akhtar, speaking at an event

We wanted to create a very real and non-Bollywood sibling equation. It all comes from our experiences with our own siblings. My favorite scene is the one on the rooftop, where Divya pours her heart out. It was inspired by a real-life instance where a sibling uncovered a lie but told us to sort it out without involving parents

— Mehul Suri, writer

Crew (2024)
Kriti Sanon and Mohit Gupta as Divya and Chintu

Divya (Kriti Sanon) plays an air hostess who has failed to secure a pilot's job, a fact she keeps hidden from her family. When her younger brother Chintu (Mohit Gupta) discovers the lie, he expresses faith in her despite their usual bickering

Did You Know? Hrithik Roshan and Abhishek Bachchan were offered roles in Dil Chahta Hai

Farhan Akhtar originally wrote Dil Chahta Hai by casting Akshaye Khanna as Akash, Hrithik Roshan as Siddhart and Saif Ali Khan as Sameer. When Hrithik Roshan turned the role down, it went to Abhishek Bachchan. After Abhishek's exit, Farhan approached Aamir Khan.

Zeenat Aman reveals she still gets nervous before public appearances

Zeenat Aman; (below) the post shared by the veteran actress

Zeenat Aman, who often gives fans a glimpse into her life, revealed how even after 50 years in the spotlight she still feels nervous before public appearances. Taking to her Instagram, Zeenat shared a candid picture that shows her sitting in a hotel room, dressed in a white robe, with her jewellery carefully laid out on the bed.

Along with the picture, Zeenat added a long note that read, "Before every event or appearance I try to find a moment of calm as I get ready. One would think that 50 years of public life would inoculate you against butterflies and jitters, but that simply isn't the case for me."

The actress also explained how she had turned her pre-event routine into a calming ritual. "So, I have turned getting ready into a meditative ritual. A hot shower, a fluffy robe, then the careful practice of laying out my jewellery and accessories. And finally, submitting to the skills of the hair and make-up artists. I start out as frumpy Zeenat and I emerge as The Zeenat Aman. This is a regular metamorphosis for all those of us who are in the business of fashion and entertainment," she shared.

Rajeev & I have become friends for the sake of our daughter: Charu Asopa

Recent pictures of Charu Asopa, Rajeev Sen and their two-and-a-half-year-old daughter, Ziana, on their trips together, have sparked curiosity among netizens about their relationship status, especially since they were involved in a contentious divorce finalised in June last year. Charu, however, says that the bitterness between them is in the past and they are now friends.

'KUCHH TOH LOG KAHENGE, LOGON KA KAAM HAI KEHNA'

The actress says, "What can I say about people commenting on social media? Nowadays, anyone with a phone can leave a comment, but I don't let that bother me. As a mother, I know what's best for my daughter and will do whatever it takes to provide that for her. Kuchh toh log kahenge, logon ka kaam hai kehna. Having been in this industry for so many years, I have realised that people have an opinion on everything I do. If I let my daughter meet Rajeev, people will say, 'Yeh muh utha kar phir chali gayi' Rajeev ke paas' and if I don't, they'll accuse me of depriving her of her father's love."

Ziana is too young to travel without me, which is why I accompany them

DRASHTI'S FITNESS MANTRA

Actress Drashti Dhami, who is expecting her first baby, shared a video of her workout regime and captioned it, "Baby on the way? 9-12 mahine hi chutti from working out? I don't think so! We've all heard, 'bhaari wazan nahi uthao', 'bass ab aaram haro, khao piyo', but it doesn't have to be that way! (sic).

'ZIANA IS TOO YOUNG TO TRAVEL WITHOUT ME'

Talking about her equation with Rajeev today, she shares, "Rajeev and my divorce happened mutually and he always had access to Ziana. Although it was difficult for me at first, we realised we needed to be on better terms for our daughter's sake. So, after maintaining a cordial relationship, we have now become friends - for her. That's all there is to it. Hum purani baaton ko bhool kar Ziana ke liye aagey badh rahe hain."

Addressing her recent trips with Rajeev, she explains, "Ziana is too young to travel without me, which is why you see me accompanying them. Once she's old enough to make her own decisions, she'll have the freedom to choose for herself."

When asked how she would feel if Rajeev moved on and whether she'd be comfortable accompanying her daughter with him, she responds, "Everyone has the right to move on. I have no issues with Rajeev moving on; in fact, I wish him the best."

COOL GIFTING IDEAS FOR YOUR SIBLINGS, THIS RAKSHABANDHAN

Is your brother someone who's catching more flights than feelings? Is your sister a foodie? Step aside from the usual, and give a gift this Rakshabandhan that stirs your sibling's soul

For the travel addict

If your brother's middle name is 'travel', what better than gifting an experience that he will truly cherish. Book a staycation or round-trip flight tickets to a nearby destination. Travel websites where you can compare flight prices can help you zero in on a destination while keeping your spends in check. You can also plan a siblings' road trip and reminisce your childhood. A suitcase with built-in scale, charging ports, and remote locks, or a Memory Foam travel neck pillow with 360-degree neck support can also be good options.

For the foodie

For those who love to cook as much as they love to eat and feed, consider smart cookware to indulge the chef in them. Choose from options like electric pressure cookers, portable and chargeable juice blenders and smart ice cream makers. You can also plan a curated chef's table at home to satiate their need to have good food. Gourmet subscription snack boxes can make for a good gift as well.

For the fitness freak

If your sibling is a gym rat, a massage gun that takes care of the post workout soreness could be a good gifting idea. They are easy to use and to carry on travels. Membership for a workout that your sibling has been planning to learn could also be a good choice, besides a smart fitness ring that monitors heart rate, blood oxygen level, body temperature, steps and calories.

Whether your sibling constantly needs juice for their phone, or changes their smartwatches to be in sync with the latest trend, a new tech addition might just make their day. Choose from sleek smartwatches that come with voice assistants, open-ear wireless earbuds with spatial audio for a wholesome audio experience, or the latest versions of instant cameras with in-built charging.

For the tech geeks

For the automotive enthusiasts

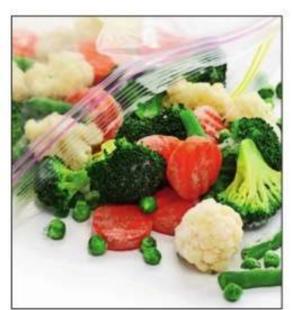

Got a motorhead for a sibling? A wireless phone charging mount could help them stay connected on the road. A Bluetooth or GPS-enabled key tracker to track misplaced car keys, or even a purse or wallet. Anti-glare glasses can help reduce glare and increase road safety at night, while a car pressure washer can help clean stains quicker.

Here's a guide to safely refreezing and reheating food

Dealing with food safety questions like "Can I refreeze that thawed salmon?" or "Is it okay to reheat these beans again?" can be tricky. Here are the answers to common concerns about handling food as it moves from freezer to fridge to table and back.

Agriculture. Food microbiology expert Donald W Schaffner from Rutgers University confirms this method keeps pathogens at bay. Quick thaws in the microwave or cold-water baths are fine if the food is cooked immediately. Raw meats should be refrozen within two days, larger cuts within five, and previously cooked meals within four days.

DOES FREEZING KILL BACTERIA?
Freezing halts bacterial growth but doesn't kill it. Chef Ashley Christensen recommends cooking refrozen proteins thoroughly and labeling containers with reminders – "Cook within one day of thawing" to avoid risks.

BEST FOODS TO REFREEZE
Foods that freeze well also refreeze well. Raw meat, poultry, and baked goods are resilient, says Donna Garren, executive vice president of science and policy at the American Frozen Food Institute. Soups, and purees also refreeze effectively.

IS REFREEZING SAFE?
Yes, refreezing is safe if the food was thawed in the refrigerator, according to the US Department of

Is it safe to reheat & refrigerate again
"It's unsafe to reheat and refrigerate repeatedly only if you allow food to spend too much time at room temperature," says Schaffner. Reheating leftovers thoroughly to 165°F (73.89°C) gives you another three to four days to eat them, per the USDA, but moisture loss increases with each reheat.

Pirates of San Sebastian, Spain make a splash at the Pirata Abordaia Festival

GALLERY

The Pirata Abordaia (Pirate boarding) Festival in the Spanish Basque city of San Sebastian remembers a time when this coastline was regularly attacked by pirates coming over from North Africa in the 16th Century

Participants leave the port on makeshift rafts before reaching La Concha Bay during the festival

The event is called Abordaje, the Boarding, and the people who participate in it are known as Donostiako Piratak in Basque, meaning 'the Pirates of San Sebastian'

Rihanna likely to headline Glastonbury festival in 2025

Rihanna

Rihanna is being lined up to headline the next Glastonbury Festival. The 36-year-old singer has focused her attention on her family life and her other business ventures in recent years, but Rihanna is now planning to make her long-awaited return to the music scene in 2025.

A source said, "It's been a running joke how long Rihanna's ninth album has taken to be released, but finally the wait is almost over. Over the years so many songs have been recorded with loads of different people, including Alesso and Diplo. She has gone from pop to reggae to hip-hop and everything in between. But because she wants it to sound fresh, and because of where Rihanna is at in her life, practically everything was scrapped." The source went on to add, "Rihanna has been back in the studio for a while now and things are finally coming together."

2025 is set to be her year with a giant tour in the works and yes, Glastonbury is back on the table
- A source

As per reports, Rihanna is now eyeing up the possibility of embarking on a "giant tour" and she could even headline the next Glastonbury Festival, with the source revealing that it's "back on the table". "Historically, she releases her albums in the last few months of the year, but the slow pace of vinyl production means the release date will likely be later than she would have liked. Either way, 2025 is set to be her year with a giant tour in the works," the source added.

Glad to be recognised for my talent, and not just my looks, says Kit Harington

Kit Harington feels he's finally being recognised for his acting "talent", rather than his good looks. The 37-year-old actor, who is best known for playing Jon Snow in Game of Thrones, believes he's entering a new phase of his career, and that people are finally starting to recognise his acting talents.

Kit, who is married to actress and former co-star Rose Leslie, spoke to a well-known international magazine recently. He said, "If you've been the young male lead in something (like Thrones), and you could argue that I got that opportunity because of my appearance, the worry is that that's all your worth is. And for me, the older I get, the more that drops away."

He added, "The more I get to accept (that) no, I'm an actor. And I've been around for a while. And I'm still working. And so at some point, I have to accept that might have something to do with my talent as well. I am glad to be finally recognised for my talent."

On the personal front, Kit previously revealed that he loved married life, describing it as "great". The actor and Rose tied the knot in 2018, and although it hasn't really changed their relationship very much, Kit feels excited about their future together.

Asked if marriage has changed his life, he said, "Not really. I love stability. You know, I knew I wanted to do this - we knew we wanted to do this. We had decided to make a great life together."

Barack Obama is sharing his annual Summer 2024 playlist — and it's a mix of old and new. Among Obama's summer mix is Charli XCX's 365, Beyoncé's Texas Hold 'Em, and Billie Eilish's CHIHIRO — plus older songs, like How Do U Want It, by 2Pac featuring K-Ci & JoJo and Sittin' by Bob Dylan. And while the former US president might be known for his annual selections in music, television, and film, he says it's his daughters who help influence what's on his playlist.

"I get referrals from my daughters — which keeps me not stuck in the '80s," the former president said in a recent interview.
