Hindi cinema used to operate in an alternative reality: Shabana Azmi

Shabana Azmi in conversation with Vidya Balan at the MAMI Mumbai Film Festival 2024

Neha Maheshwri

The masterclass with veteran actress Shabana Azmi moderated by Vidya Balan, at the MAMI Mumbai Film Festival 2024, left the audience inspired. The two acclaimed actresses shared their journeys, offering insightful perspectives on the craft of acting, the evolving landscape of Indian cinema, and the key to staying relevant. 'THEATRE ISN'T MY FIRST MEDIUM, I FIND IT INCREDIBLY CHALLENGING' During their conversation about the diverse mediums in today's entertainment landscape, Vidya asked Shabana about her love for theatre, given her unforgettable performances in plays like Tumhari Amrita and Broken Images. "I still see myself as a film actor," Shabana responded, elaborating, "I'm trained in cinema and understand the medium much better. However, I believe the ideal situation for an actor is to work in both mediums."

'Actors who start playing meaningful roles have a longer career span'

On the topic of ageing and the kind of roles that women get offered, Shabana concluded, "Ageing has never been a problem for me, I embrace it as a natural part of life. I don't try to look younger than I am because there's nothing more beautiful than ageing gracefully. Even in my 30s, I wasn't doing only naachne-gaane ke roles; I was playing substantial characters. Actors who start playing meaningful roles have a longer career span. There's always more space for characters than just leading men and women."

HOW TO PLAY
Fill in the grid so that every horizontal row, every vertical column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9, without repeating the numbers in the same row, column or box. You can't change the digits already given in the grid. Every puzzle has one solution.

TIMES HITORI

HOW TO PLAY
1. A number may appear just once in each row or column. Eliminate repeat numbers by darkening cells. (see example)
2. Darkened cells must never be adjacent in a row or column.
3. Unmarked cells must create a single continuous area, undivided by darkened cells.
4. Every time you darken a cell, you can automatically circle its vertical and horizontal neighbours, which means they cannot be eliminated.
5. Any cell "sandwiched" between neighbours of the same value can be circled. (e.g. 6 4 6)
6. A "triple" is a special case of sandwich. Circle the centre cells, and darken the ends. (e.g. 6 6 6)

LOOP THE LOOP

RULES
• Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A).
• Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B).
• Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines.
• You can't draw lines around zeroes.
• Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

HOW TO BEGIN:
Example (Fig A) - Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.
Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a deadend (Fig B).

Heard of unhappy leave? The growing workplace trend

While employee well-being has become a buzzword these days, a new trend – unhappy leave – is making waves. The idea? If you're feeling unhappy, you aren't expected to work

Pics: iStock

What is unhappy leave

- The unhappy leave trend refers to employees taking time off when they feel emotionally unwell
- Unlike the traditional sick leave, unhappy leave is driven by emotional burnout and stress, providing a flexible solution to address mental health
- This trend is part of promoting a healthy work-life balance

How did the trend start

- The trend originated in China, introduced by a retail supermarket chain called Pang Dong Lai in Henan Province. The chain began offering up to 10 days of unhappy leaves to its employees each year
- This policy allows employees to take leaves whenever they feel emotionally low, with a management promise that no request will be denied

- According to the company, the aim is to improve employee mental health and well-being, which affect workplace morale, job engagement, and productivity
- There is growing international interest in the concept, reflecting a broader movement encouraging companies to prioritise emotional well-being

This report offers crucial insights into the current state of workplace happiness in India. The stark disparities in happiness levels across different demographics and sectors are a call to action for organisations to prioritise employee well-being

- Namrata Tata, director of Happiest Places to Work, commented on the finding

(as per Happiness at Work - How Happy is India's Workforce? - 2024 report)

Happiness at work

- 70% of the Indian workforce reports being unhappy at work
- 54% of employees who feel unsupported or unfulfilled at work are considering leaving their organisations
- Employees who have the opportunity to pursue personal interests within a supportive environment are 60% less likely to leave their jobs

- 59% of the millennials intend to contemplate a job change

Say no to burnt food.

Embrace Brat green this festive season

Thanks to the singer Charli XCX, Brat green – a bright lime green – has been trending in fashion circles since June. And Indians are owning it in their own way – with the likes of Shradha Kapoor, Janhvi Kapoor and more, opting ethnic outfits in the colour. Take cues from these celebs to add some lime green cheer to your festive wardrobe.

Diwali night calls for all things bling, add lime green to it and one is sure to turn heads! Anushka Sharma did just that when she donned this sari with statement jewellery

During Navratri, Shradha Kapoor wore a sharara set in the bright shade featuring intricate embroidery and net dupatta with gota patti work. Something similar can be worn for Diwali parties

Looking for a stylish yet comfy lime green outfit for card parties? Take cues from Priyanka Chopra and wear a draped sari in Brat green to stand out in the crowd

For those into avant-garde fashion, a Brat green cape sari like Sobhita Dhulipala's can be the perfect way to adopt the colour in festive wear. Silver jewellery can go well with such an outfit

A popping green and pink patiala set like Janhvi Kapoor's can be a trendy outfit for a daytime festive meet-and-greet. Like the actress, braiding the hair and adding a parandi can elevate the look

Get the Brat trend right

BEST FABRIC: Light, fluid and airy material like organza silk, mulmul, chiffon
BEST CRAFT: Mirrorwork, gottapatti, thread embroidery, neutral metallics and embellishments
BEST ACCESSORIES: Silver, gold, stonework – try to keep it to warm tones
PRO TIP: Those who dig contrasts pair Brat green with fuchsia pink or bright purple

Abstain from spreading rumours, says Remo D'Souza

Days after a case was filed against Remo D'Souza and his wife Lizelle D'Souza over allegations of fraud, the couple said they will present their case and cooperate with authorities. In a joint statement shared on their Instagram pages, Remo and Lizelle urged people to steer clear of rumour mongering.

"It has come to our notice through media reports that some complaint has been registered alleging fraud in regards to a certain dance troupe. It's disheartening that such information has been published. We would like to request everyone to abstain from spreading rumours before ascertaining true facts. We shall put our case forward in due time and will continue to cooperate with the authorities in every way possible, like we have done so far. We would like to thank our family, friends, and fans for the outpouring of love and continuous support," the duo said in a statement on Instagram. PTI

What happened:

A case was filed in Mumbai against Remo D'Souza, his wife, and five others for allegedly cheating a dance troupe of ₹11.96 crore, police reported on Saturday. The troupe claims the accused cheated them out of prize money they had won on a TV show. As per the FIR, the complainant, who is a 26-year-old dancer, and his troupe were allegedly cheated between 2018 and July 2024.

Barmbrack, bonfire toffee: Savour Halloween treats

With just a few days to go for Halloween, it's time to start planning for trick-or-treating and spooky costumes. However, the real magic lies in the food! Different cultures around the globe celebrate the day with unique dishes that honour the dead and bring people together. From sweet treats to savoury delights, these traditional Halloween foods not only leave your taste buds asking for more but also tell stories of love, remembrance, and celebration. Let's take a delicious journey through some of the most interesting Halloween foods from various countries!

Bonfire toffee, United Kingdom

Bonfire toffee is a traditional British treat tied to Halloween and Guy Fawkes Night. This hard toffee is made from melted black treacle, butter, and sugar, according to the source. It is broken into small pieces before being served. Additionally, apples can be coated in this caramel for a Bonfire Night-special treat called Toffee Apples.

Huesos de Santo, Spain

Huesos de Santo or 'saint's bones' is a delicious Spanish treat traditionally eaten on November 1st, All Saints Day. These are made with soft marzipan tubes, shaped like bones, and filled with fruit and nuts such as coconut, kiwi, and strawberry. Visit Spain in late October or early November, and you'll find bakeries stocked with these little skeleton-like sweet treats.

Paes-de-Deus, Portugal

In Portugal, a tradition similar to Halloween is celebrated, called Pao por Deus. This day is quieter and does not include dressing up in scary costumes. However, children take part in a custom of walking door-to-door and collecting treats. Often, they receive Paes-de-Deus, which are Portuguese bread rolls. These rolls are topped with a mixture of eggs, dry coconut, lemon zest, and powdered sugar.

Barmbrack, Ireland

Barmbrack is a traditional Irish fruit cake known for its unique way of predicting fortunes. Often served with butter, this cake includes dried fruit that has been soaked overnight in hot tea.

When baking, some items are hidden inside. What people find inside their slice can indicate their future. For example, a ring may signify marriage.

Pan dei Morti, Italy

In Italy, November 2 marks the celebration of All Souls' Day, a day similar to Halloween. On this day, Italians visit cemeteries to pay respect to their deceased loved ones. One special tradition involves the preparation of a unique cookie known as Pan di Morti, or Bread of the Dead. These dense cookies are prepared with almonds, pine nuts, cinnamon, and lemon zest.

There's nothing more beautiful than ageing gracefully: Shabana

Vidya Balan and Shabana Azmi

Nandita Das and Shabana Azmi in Fire

Dharmendra and Shabana Azmi in Rocky Aur Rani Kii Prem

I really enjoyed working on Rocky Aur Rani... In the very first scene, I had my hair down on one side, wearing a silk sari while cooking macchi curry. I asked Karan (Johar), 'Which Bengali woman cooks in a silk sari with her hair open?' He said, 'In a Karan Johar film, she does, just go with it'. I'm glad I trusted his vision because it turned out beautifully
— Shabana Azmi

Shabana says, "While theatre isn't my first medium, I find it incredibly challenging. The thrill of performing live on stage is unmatched. However, I wouldn't say it's the most satisfying because a film performance lasts forever, whereas theatre is ephemeral."

Vidya added, "I've been offered a few plays, but I haven't had the courage to say yes. The idea of performing in front of a live audience is extremely intimidating."

'HINDI CINEMA USED TO OPERATE IN AN ALTERNATIVE REALITY'

Vidya brought up the fact that Shabana has starred in a diverse range of films, from arthouse cinema to mainstream escapist hits. When asked about the contrasting impact and reception of her vast body of work, she replied, "I just have a ball. I surrender myself to the director. For example, if I were to ask someone like Manmohan Desai, 'What does this mean?' He'd reply, 'Iska kuchh matlab nahi hai. Main bol raha hoon yeh hai iska matlab. Yeh Satyajit Ray ki picture nahi hai' (laughs!). And you are happy to surrender to someone who directs with such conviction."

'My entire family supported my decision to do Fire'

When I was working with women living in slums, I was concerned that if I accepted the role (in Fire), it could be used against me, making it difficult for those women to continue working with me. Zoya (Akhtar), who was only 18 then, asked, 'If you like the script, what's the big deal?' Farhan, even younger, liked the script but was concerned about the ending — my character was meant to die in the fire. He argued it would suggest the character did something wrong, insisting she needed to survive. I shared his feedback with Deepa (Mehta). Ultimately, my entire family supported my decision
— Shabana Azmi on being part of Deepa Mehta's Fire

'THE LACK OF ATTENTION TO DETAIL IN MAINSTREAM CINEMA DROVE ME CRAZY'

Elaborating on her experience of working in mainstream and offbeat cinema, she said, "It's actually easier for actors to perform in arthouse cinema because it is realistic. Hindi cinema used to operate in an alternative reality; it didn't matter if you were playing a policeman or a businessman — their homes looked no different from one another. The lack of attention to detail drove me crazy. It was left to art films to capture those finer nuances. I feel there was a design behind it though — Hindi cinema aimed to cater to the lowest common denominator and wanted to be all India. This focus on mass appeal made it more challenging to create credibility in such a stereotypical world."

'I LAMENT THE LOSS OF SONGS & LIP-SYNCING IN OUR FILMS'

Shabana expressed her disappointment over the decline of lip-synced songs in Hindi cinema, saying, "I lament the loss of songs being sung in sync because, in Hindi films, we tell our stories through songs. These songs were like little philosophies that captured life's moments. We had a song for every situation, creating a nostalgic connection. However, in the effort to be modern, we're replacing the song with something no one is paying attention to."
Vidya agreed, adding, "I absolutely miss lip-syncing to songs; they have now been relegated to the background. I also feel that the urge to be universal is robbing the Hindi film industry of its unique essence."
'ACTORS WHO START PLAYING MEANINGFUL ROLES HAVE A LONGER CAREER SPAN'
When asked how she has managed to stay relevant over the decades, Shabana shared, "I've never been someone to rest on past achievements because I constantly seek new challenges. So, staying relevant is important to me. Even after 50 years, I am still learning. I adapt to changes, like working with green screens (chroma) where I react to nothing."

If marrying Javed Akhtar would make me Shabana Azmi, I would marry him
— Vidya Balan
