Trump govt may press India to give Amazon, Walmart's Flipkart full access to $125 bn e-comm market

The United States is pushing India to open its e-commerce market to American giants like Amazon and Walmart. These talks are part of a broader trade deal covering sectors like food and automobiles. The US wants a level playing field, challenging India's regulations. India's rules favor local rivals. This comes amid US Vice President JD Vance's visit to India.
